

Resilient Nomad

Tom Buscher

good8design@gmail.com

Genre: Drama/Inspirational

Logline: A man embarks on an adventure to the Pacific Northwest in search of adventure. He goes down many career paths in an attempt to both fund his mountain exploration and escape poverty before finding his passion is the key to his success.

Act I: In a small Iowa farm town Tom is bored and frustrated with life. Having a criminal record limits him on job opportunities and builds a reputation that he can't escape. Despite this, he finds work doing construction for minimum wage. He uses what little money he has to spend time fishing the rivers and lakes as he schemes up ways to make enough money to escape to the mountains and build a new life where he can find adventure and peace. Years go by with many attempts to improve life Before an opportunity comes his way to move to the mountains in the PNW.

Act II: Upon arriving in the Pacific Northwest Tom is certainly greeted with the adventure he was seeking. He finally had a job where he enjoyed working on a farm and living in a cabin on a mountain. As forest fires circled in, life once again forced a change. He moved further North and continued working different jobs before finding a great career at a paper mill. Tom worked there for years as he planted roots and built a life. The mill decided to shut down which left Tom feeling lost and depressed at the loss of opportunity to escape poverty through hard work, but he was able to find new hope with an opportunity to get a college degree doing what he has always had interest in Multimedia Communications.

Act III: As Tom Began college his knowledge and understanding continued increasing and he started to see things differently. As he embraced to possibility of an optimistic future he learned ways to take his passion for adventure and the great outdoors and make it profitable. Tom put forth his best effort and buckled down to produce amazing work. With each class his skills were increased, and his ability was expanded. Tom eventually went on to create videos, graphic designs and photography that would provide him enough income to finally be a homeowner and forget about the financial struggles that kept him stuck for so many years.